In order to ensure voters' rights, the Federal "Help America Vote Act" and the Alabama Election Code provide for "provisional voting". Provisional voting was created to allow a voter, whose eligibility has been questioned, to vote on Election Day.

If a voter's name does not appear on the list of registered voters, the provisional officer must call the Board of Registrars to verify the correct voting location, ballot and the voter's eligibility to cast a ballot. The provisional officer will be informed of the voter's correct voting location, ballot and eligibility to vote and relay this information to the voter. A voter who disputes this information will still be allowed to vote. However, if the voting place or ballot is not correct for the voter, it will not be counted. The voter has until the close of business on the Friday following the election to present their evidence to the Board of Registrars to allow that ballot to be counted.
